MUCH PAVING IS COMPLETED

ALL PROJECTS SO FAR IN 1925 TOTAL $52,685.60.

WORK IS APPROVED

Council Passes Ordinance At Session Last Night—Fifth Street Proposal Now Pending.

With seven paving projects including seventeen and a half blocks already approved and many completed, Maryville is in the midst of an extensive improvement program for the present year.

The total amount of the contracts already let by the city council aggregate $52,685.60.

In addition to these seven projects there is another pending for action by the council. It includes paving on Fifth street from Mulberry to the Wabash right-of-way, about two and a half blocks, at an approximate cost of $10,000.

The council last night passed ordinances approving the paving on South Main street from Halsey to Lincoln, from Lincoln and South Main to the state highway, from First to Second street on Market, and the two blocks on Dunn street. The council ordered the tax bills issued and dated August 6, Mayor Garrett said this morning.

The following paving projects have already received final action by the city council:

Three blocks on South Main, from Halsey to Lincoln, concrete, $10,382.49.

Three blocks on Lincoln and South Main to greenhouses from Lincoln and Main streets, $9,641.57.

Two blocks on Dunn street, from Second to Fourth, $5,291.03.

Four blocks on Fillmore street from Fourth to Eighth, $12,710.20.

Two blocks on Fillmore from Second to Fourth, $5,583.80.

All of the above is seven-inch reinforced concrete and the figures given include total cost of paving, rolling and finishing, excavation and concrete headers where necessary.

The other project includes two and a half blocks on Walnut street from the Wabash right-of-way to Twelfth street. The paving is to be of two and a half inch brick on four inch concrete and one-inch sand cushion with asphaltic filler. The cost is $6,233.79.

Cook & O'Brien Construction Co. of Kansas City have been awarded all of the contracts let this year. With the exception of the awarding last Saturday, the Kansas City firm has had competition in each instance.

The construction company furnishes all of the material and pays for the entire costs, as the bid specifies.

A great deal of the labor for the work this year has been supplied by local persons, except for the engineering. All of the work is under the supervision of Joseph Reese, city engineer, and W. N. Critchfield of the E. T. Archer Co. of Kansas City, consulting engineers, has final decision as to how all paving shall be constructed. Archer & Co. is employed by the city and paid out of the general fund.

Another paving contract will be let August 5 for about a half-block on Lincoln street, between Main and Buchanan, for seven-inch reinforced concrete.

The paving is paid for by property owners on the streets which are paved. Special tax bills are levied against their property and turned over to the concern which has the contract. The intersections of streets are also paid for by the property owners, the amount being divided up equally.

Sheriff Campbell and Deputy Sheriff England went to Graham yesterday and brought the liquor to the sheriff's office.

U. S. May Intervene in Mine Conference

Talk of Federal Action Is Again At Front As New Meeting of Factions Gets Under Way.

Atlantic City, July 28.—With a national hard coal strike threatened for September 1 and with both operators and miners' union officials apparently hopelessly deadlocked, talk of federal intervention came to the front again today.

Operators and miners representatives gathered here this morning in another attempt to arrive at a basis for a contract to replace the one expiring August 30.

The miners have presented all their demands, including that a dollar a day increase for mine labor, and the operators are to make a formal reply.

EFFORT MADE TO BREAK JAIL

THREE BARS HAD BEEN CUT AT THE COUNTY JAIL

DISCOVERY IN TIME

Charles Cook in Jail on Quitman Garage Robbery Charge Takes Blame —Saws and Knives Were Found

An attempted jail break was prevented yesterday by Sheriff Campbell, and Deputies England and Dougan when they discovered two bars on the outside of a window and one bar on the inside as well as one end of another bar on the inside had been cut with a saw.

Sheriff Campbell discovered certain maneuvers and after a search by him and his two deputies found two saws, two case knives and a file. One of the saws was found in the pocket of Charles Cook, who was arrested April 30 on a charge of robbery of the Quitman garage. Cook confessed and says there was no help from the other prisoners. Cook is said to have served a penitentiary sentence. His trial will come up at the October term of circuit court.

One of the case knives was found under a brace of a table while the other saw was found hidden in a mattress. Another knife was found on the roof at the edge of the cage. How the saws, knives and file got into the jail is what Sheriff Campbell is trying to find out.

All that was left to be done to break jail was to saw one of the bars on the inside of the window. Soap had been used to fill up the cuts on the other bars so as to prevent detection.

Cook takes all of the blame for the attempted jail break. The other prisoners in jail are Bill McMichael, Roy Tibbetts and George Shultz with Ellis and Wilson Bradley being kept upstairs on account of the fact that Ellis Bradley was recently operated on.

Welfare Board Is in Need of Funds

Many Have Failed To Pay Their Pledges, Hal T. Hooker, President of Organization, Says.

The Maryville Welfare Board is in need of funds to carry on its work, Hal Hooker, chairman, said today.

The organization is not only out of money but is in debt, Mr. Hooker said, because many persons who made pledges have not yet paid them.

"The last winter was very hard on the poor of our city and there are still some widows needing help," Mr. Hooker said. "If we could have realized on what had been promised, we would have been able to have met our obligations. One local citizen promised $50 but the board has been unable to collect it. We hope that those in comfort will think of those in need."

A financial statement of the welfare board will be published soon.

MARY FRANKEN WINS CONTEST

MANY UNIQUE METHODS

One Girl Earned Money by Dragging Roads—Another Did Without Mid-Week Date.

The Newman Club dollar contest which closed last night was won by Miss Mary Sybilla Franken with Miss Alice Lawler second and a tie between Miss Mary Kinsella and Mrs. A. E. Nash of St. Joseph for third place. The conditions of the contest were to the one who contributed a dollar which was earned in the most unique and clever manner should receive a prize of $10.

The contest had been carried on in an effort to secure funds for the Newman Club House. There were a number of entries. The judges, Prof. B. W. Loomis, George Robb Ellison and James Todd selected the winners last evening, the various plans for earning a dollar carrying numbers instead of the names of the person.

This is how Miss Franken tells of how she earned her dollar:

My dollar I must earn,
But how was my concern.
Many a dollar I have made,
But none in a unique way have I been paid.
I thought of manicuring, dish washing, bathing pets,
But my lucky dollar came from collecting bad debts.

The second prize, the plan of Miss Lawler was:

The ribbons I used was green and gold
To make little book marks to sell.
Thinking they might attract a fine piece of gold
Or a nice new ten dollar bill.

Third place was a tie. The one submitted by Miss Mary Kinsella was:

I noticed quite a number of old automobile tires lying around the barn and garage, so I thot "There's a dollar in them." I gathered them all up and took them to a junk shop and got a dollar for them.

The ope by Mrs. Nash was:

I earned my dollar selling chips
A job both hot and hard;
The chips I made were good to eat
And not found in a yard.

A large variety of plans and a great many schemes were in evidence of ways to earn money. One of the contestants won a dollar in a true incident when a roommate entertained her friend's "steady" while she was at the show with a "sheik" until her friend got back and appeared as though no "sheik" had ever dated with her.

One contestant formed a stock company with the $10 prize in mind and sold shares at 5 cents each to twenty investors with a divident provided the prize was secured.

One girl who lives on a farm earned her dollar by running a binder when harvesting oats. Other ways were: walking to work, doing without a mid-week date, hoeing weeds, swatting flies at 3 cents a dozen, abstaining from ice cream. While dragging roads are generally considered a "man's job" yet one 13-year-old girl earned her dollar in this way.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Worthington and family of Manhattan, Kan., and B. F. Worthington of Ottawa, Kan., came yesterday evening for an over-night visit with their brother, S. D. Worthington, and family. They left this morning to visit a brother near Clearfield, Ia.

Mrs. La Follette Won't Enter Race

Her Refusal Is Taken as Indication That Oldest Son Will Become Candidate for Senate.

Madison, Wis., July 28.—From the seclusion of her Maple Bluff farm, Mrs. Robert M. La Follette announced today she would not become a candidate for the Senate seat made vacant by the death of her husband, Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

Her refusal to make the race was taken by close friends of the family here as definite indications that her oldest son, Robert M. La Follette, Jr., shortly will announce himself as a candidate for the unexpired term that runs until 1928.

In progressive circles, young La Follette's candidacy has been accepted as a fact for some time.

PEACE PARLEY NOW FAVORED

BUT EUROPE MUST FIRST ACT ON SECURITY PACT.

OBSTACLES CLEARED

Dawes Plan And Geneva Agreements Seem To Make Satisfactory Progress, President Coolidge Believes.

Swampscott, Mass., July 28.—A new world conference looking to further disarmament will be called by the government of the United States following the perfecting by the nations of Europe of the pending securities pact should the latter prove possible, it was indicated today at the summer White House here by an official spokesman for the President.

President Coolidge frankly is anxious to see the nations of Europe enter into the securities agreement which they are now discussing. He believes the proposed pact would lay a very broad basis for further limitation of armament and he also thinks it would stabalize conditions generally in Europe to the point for which he has been waiting before undertaking a second arms conference.

President Coolidge, it was stated in his behalf, realizes there can never exist in Europe what might be called a perfect condition for the discussing of disarmament. He merely has been waiting for a time when Europe had more nearly returned to a pre-war basis so as to give his confernce larger promise of success.

First is was the drafting of the Dawes plan which caused the President to hold his call in abeyance. Then he was delayed again while that plan was put in operation.

Next followed the Geneva conference with its discussion of arms traffic and opium control.

Both the Dawes plan and the agreements resulting from the Geneva conference have gone forward towards the stabalization of Europe, in the opinion of the President and he is now waiting only for the various nations to reach a security accord before summoning them to Washington to discuss further reduction of their navies and air forces.

COMMON FOLK PAY TRIBUTE

MOUNTAINEERS FLOCK TO DAYTON TO SEE IDOL.

TO LEAVE TOMORROW

Funeral Services To Be Held In Washington At 3 O'Clock Friday Afternoon—Burial In Arlington.

Dayton, Tenn., July 28.—The people of this little town and surrounding hill country paid their last final tribute to William Jennings Bryan this afternoon when hundreds of them filed past his bier as he lie in state in the little home of Richard Rogers.

It had been planned to have the body in its flag-draped coffin and surrounded by flowers lie in state under the maple trees on the lawn but these arrangements were cancelled when Mrs. Ruth Owen, daughter of the commoner, objected. She consented, however, to allow his friends and admirers to view the body in the house where he died Sunday.

Mrs. Bryan was not at home when friends, in single file, entered the front door, passed the casket with the lid upturned so they could view his face, and filed out. She had gone to Chattanooga earlier in the day with her daughter and Mrs. Bryan Jennings, widow of a former governor of Florida. They went to do a little shopping and because friends believed the motor ride would benefit Mrs. Bryan, who has been sitting silently in her invalid chair since the death of her famous husband.

A few friends will spend the night with Mrs. Bryan and her daughter in the little house where they will wait with their dead for the train which will leave in the morning to take the body to Washington.

Dayton, Tenn., July 28.—Under black lowering skies that threatened any moment to pour rain, the Cumberland hills emptied themselves into Dayton today where William Jennings Bryan lay dead.

Their dusty flivvers and ancient wagons creeped into town to the accompaniment of rolling thunder back in the hills, bringing hundreds who regarded the commoner as "the greatest man in the world" to look for the last time at the peaceful figure sleeping in his simple coffin.

Incoming trains broughts hundreds others from nearby cities and towns. They joined with the hill-folk before the white-painted home of Richard Rogers where Bryan died on Sunday. The town was crowded again as it was in the days of Dayton's glory. But it was a somber-toned multitude that contrasted strongly with the carnival spirit that prevailed in the town during the Scopes trial.

The weather was so threatening that it was doubtful whether Bryan's body could be taken from the Rogers home and placed on the spacious lawn "in state." It had been planned to remove the simple coffin from the room now holding it at 2 o'clock this afternoon and then for three hours have it on the lawn for the thousands to pass by and view.

Should rain prevent outdoor homage to the commoner, the Rogers home probably will be thrown open late this afternoon.

Meanwhile Dayton resumed business this morning. Shopkeepers removed the shutters from their windows of their stores that were closed all day yesterday in honor of the dead. The draped flags were removed from Main and Market streets and the town went about its business, but with a sort of hushed tread.

Mrs. Bryan, the invalid widow, was still bearing up under the strain today with remarkable fortitude. The arrival of Mrs. Owen caused a brief break but she rallied strongly.

London, July 28.—The British government today took formal notice of the death of William Jennings Bryan. The foreign office directed Sir Howard, British ambassador in Washington, to convey through the American state department Britain's condolences in the passing of the commoner.

Washington, July 28—Funeral services for William Jennings Bryan will

President Coolidge Pays Tribute to Bryan

Swampscott, Mass., July 28.—President Coolidge sent late yesterday this letter to the widow of William Jennings Bryan:

My Dear Mrs. Bryan: The death of Mr. Bryan brought a sense of personal loss to Mrs. Coolidge and myself. It was only the other day he had been our guest at the White House. We wish to extend to you and your family our most heartfelt sympathy.

Mr. Bryan has been a prominent figure in public affairs for a third of a century. He has been a leader in the advocacy of many moral reforms and was representative of the effort for purity in our political life. He was endowed with the great gift of eloquence. The sincerity of his motives was beyond dispute. He was three times chosen head of a great political party and held the exalted office of secretary of state.

His career was another example of what American opportunity affords to those who have the will industriously to apply themselves. It would be difficult to find among his contemporaries anyone with so large a circle of friends and acquaintances who so generously had bestowed upon him their esteem and confidence.

I trust you may be given great consolation in remembering all his worth and in the abiding faith that a divine Providence has ordered all things well.

French Underworld Is Basis for Movie

Marseilles, where the dregs of every sea-faring nation in the world mingle in the dance halls, where sailors and the women outcasts of all nations try to forget their troubles in wild and never-ending gayety, is reproduced in Norma Talmadge's new photoplay, "The Lady."

Norma has two roles, one of a 1900 flapper—a pretty soubrette in a London theatre—and the other of a disillusioned expatriated mother maintaining a cafe just behind the battle-front during the Great War.

Tregedy and gayety, the wild life of the Monte Carlo gaming tables, the "Barbary Coast" of Marseilles, the seacoast at Havre, the aftermath of the battlefields of France, the hectic night life of theatrical London, the seamy side of the slums in the British metropolis—all figure in the picture.

"The Lady" is a First National attraction produced by Joseph M. Schenck. It will be shown at the Empire Theatre tonight.

LAST OF "BIG FOUR" IS GONE

ROOSEVELT, WILSON, LaFOLLETTE AND NOW BRYAN.

INTERESTING CHAPTER

Commoner's Death Closes Important Period In American Political History—Leaders of Nation.

Washington, July 28.—With the death of William Jennings Bryan, the last of the interesting group of leaders who dominated political thought and action in the United States in the first quarter of the new century, have passed on.

Roosevelt, Wilson, La Follette and now Bryan have gone.

Of other conspicuous figures, Crane, Aldrich, Penrose, Lodge, Stone, and Champ Clark have passed from the scenes by death. John Sharp Williams and Oscar Underwood have voluntarily retired.

New leaders and new issues are taking the forum. The change in issues really came with the post-war problems facing the country. But curiously, Bryan and La Follette, both of them products of the same insurgent movement of the West, both the spokesmen of flaming political revolt, lived on beyond their era and passed away within a few months of each other.

A chapter in national history is closed and written. With Bryan's death a new chapter, a new political epoch, is in the making. The Republicans have found their new apparently successful leadership in Calvin Coolidge, the President—a man unknown nationally when Roosevelt and Bryan and later Wilson were dominating the political stage.

LaFollette's death left the third party movement leaderless and with political disintegration in prospect. Bryan's death, as politicians see it, more than ever emphasizes that the Democratic party must go through the process of reorganization, with the development of new leadership essential But where it is coming from and by whom it will be offered, developments of time only can tell.

Were Not Merely Candidates.

Men like Roosevelt, Wilson and Bryan were not mere candidates. In a lesser way, this was true of La Follette. They represented something and somebody, the somebody being millions, and because they did while they lived they played important parts in the politics of their day. Taft, Cox and Davis, on the other hand, were only incidents in the political span they figured in.

So it is that Bryan's death is full of political meaning. The time long since had passed when he could control or dominate Democracy. He had lived beyond the day and era—always a tragedy in politics. And such leadership never comes back. An entirely new generation of voters had come on who had never voted for the Peerless One, who had never been swayed by the eloquence of his silver tongue. Bryan to them was just an old-time leader, who had led to defeat. Some of them thought of him as a "scold" and a "thorn in the side" of Democracy.

But to millions, mostly those who were on the descending slope of life's pathway, Bryan was still Bryan. Especially did he retain his hold, not controlling, but a potential one because of his active championing of the so-called moral issues—prohibition, suffrage, and finally fundamentalism and orthodoxy in religion. Men think more of this last when on the descending span of life.

Great Vetoer of Democracy.

They called him the Great Commoner in his sunny days of power. He might well be called the Great Vetoer of Democracy in his later years. He could not make, but he could break candidates, and he did. Any individual possessing such a power is a disturbing rather than a constructive factor, and that was Bryan's role. So it is that some see a softening of feuds and a minimizing of the clash of views, with the veto of Bryan gone from over Democracy. Maybe so. That is for the future to write.

Certainly, the new crusade of Bryan for fundamentalism was being viewed with apprehension, even alarm, by Democratic leaders, for fear of its political consequences. They foresaw the bitterness of the historic Madison Square Garden convention being heightened, rather than minmized with the years. It remains to be seen how Bryan's passing will react on this situation.

Long since, Bryan had ceased to represent the economic leadership of the West and South. It was his championing of the moral issues that still gave him his hold. He had lost his touch with the immediate economic problems. He could still inveigh against the interests, the East and the money powers. But his mind and interest was on other things.

Hardly an Issue Now

Possibly the new Democratic leadership can emerge on a program economic in character, although it must be confessed that at the present moment, never have the two major parties been closer together in beliefs than today. Also, not for generations has there been such an era of political good will. The present harks back almost to the days of Monroe, and before the rise of Jacksonian Democracy for a counterpart.

It is not a time, right now, of sharp party division. The positive Democratic leadership, approaching the hold of Bryan or Wilson, may have to wait the arrival of issues and come in with a high tide of feeling, as did Jackson, standing for something definite and new.

Curiously, history shows the Democrats, at least since the Civil War, have prospered most and functioned best under the domination and leadership of one man. Grover Cleveland brought the party back to power after the war had entrenched Republicanism and made the G. O. P. almost synonymous with patriotism. Came the agrarian revolt out of the hard times, and Populism and the emergence of Bryan as the leader after his Cross of Gold speech. The Democrats did not win with Bryan, but they functioned unitedly, even in congress. Then arose the Wilson leadership, the most dominant and all-powerful of all, with eight years of power for Democracy, only to break to pieces on the League of Nations, the after-war depression and other differences.

No National Leaders.

There has been no leadership national in scope since. There has been factional leaderships, feudal chieftains seeking to extend their power. And in the guerilla warfare that has been on since the passing of Wilson, Bryan has been an important factor. Governor Al Smith of New York, and William G. McAdoo of California will stand out as leading more voters, perhaps, than any other forces in Democracy, now that Bryan has passed. Yet both stand out as feudists on an irreconciliable clash of viewpoint, rather than as potential national hopes for Democratic leadership. There can be neither peace nor hope of success with either, so great is the bitterness, and the bulk of the party knows that to be a fact.

The death of Bryan will have its effect on the future of Democracy, because of the power he wielded. But it does not point the clew to the future of the party. Rather, it would seem that the Democrats await the arising of an issue that will submerge the bitter schism opened up by over-emphasis of religious prejudices. When that issue comes, it likely will bring its man with it, and meanwhile the mechanical process of compromising and attempted harmonizing will proceed somewhat aimlessly, if the past five years are any criterion.

Editor's Note—This is the seventh of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

JAMES J. DAVIS

Acting as daddy to twelve hundred children is the principal hobby of James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor in the Coolidge Cabinet.

It is as director of "Mooseheart," the great orphanage maintained in Illinois by the Loyal Order of Moose, that Secretary Davis acquires this tremendous family. And every youngster in the home looks up to Director "Jim" as a daddy, uncle and big brother rolled into one.

Children are his love. He has four of his own, besides the "Mooseheart" family. Conservation of youth is his fetich. Let a movement start to improve child hygienes or to remove child hazards, and Secretary Davis will be found in the van, giving it his undivided support. The consummation of this love is evidenced at 'Mooseheart,' which he founded for friendless waifs and built with subscriptions obtained from 600,000 members of his order.

Educates Children

Under Davis's personal direction, approximately $6,500,000 was spent on the home. Davis was not satisfied with just a home for the youngsters. He insisted that a high school be maintained there so the waifs might be properly educated. With this acquired he insisted a manual training school be added so the younsters could learn a trade before going out into the world. Both additions were made under his direction.

The Secretary is a frequent visitor at "Mooseheart." He loves to roam through the corridors of the home, children running before him and after him, with a dozen clinging to his hands.

There is drama in this Davis love for children. The Secretary cannot forget his own childhood, when he worked as a boy in the glaring fires of a puddle mill. He is known today among his intimates as "Puddler Jim," and he bears that nickname as other great men do a famous university degree. He remembers the weary days of blast furnaces, the long hours of handling white-hot meatal, his constant desire for something better.

Now his code for all children is:

"Every boy and every girl is entitled to at least a high-school education. Every boy should be taught some trade."

Loves Music

That is another Davis hobby, music—good music. He loves grand opera, but above all, Welsh choral music. He has a penchant for helping youngsters to a musical education. In one instance, he even sent a protege abroad to study under the European masters. He is especially active in all Welsh Eistedfodds—the Welsh singing societies—and the Gorsedd. He is a high official of the National Eistedfodd.

The Secretary is also an ardent golfer. Aside from romps with his family, golf furnishes him with recreation. He is a little better on the links than the usual Cabinet member and has roundly trounced most of his Senatorial opponents.

Davis has one weakness. It is a fondness for "Mulligan stew," a combination of vegetables and meat. He acquired an early taste for this platter while working in the Pittsburgh steel mills, and to get it nowadays the Secretary can be inveigled out of his office at any hour.

But, all in all, the Secretary of Labor labors most for the welfare of children. He is a sort of a "Y. M. C. A." all by himself.

"Bryan Faction" of Democratic Party Is Now Without Leader to Champion Cause

Washington, July 28.—The death of William Jennings Bryan writes an end to the long era in the history of the Democratic party which began when he achieved its leadership in 1896 and concluded with his unsuccessful fight for William G. McAdoo in the 1924 New York convention.

For 28 years he was spokesman for a large section of the Democracy and though his political strength dwindled in recent years he still remained a reckoning power within the ranks. There is no one apparent to take his place.

The dramatic leader who for years was undisputed idol of the party, who with a gesture smashed the hopes of Champ Clark and sent Woodrow Wilson to the White House, who held the McAdoo forces intact during the New York deadlock, leaves an uncertain future for the army in which he fought.

A realignment of the various factions and battalions is inevitable, but what form or shape it will take can only be revealed by developments.

Some believe the death of the Commoner will have a striking effect upon the bitter McAdoo-Smith feud. He was leader of the McAdoo forces, especially the southern delegations. He was more than any other man a spokesman for the "solid south" and the west. His views represented the ideas of the majority of southern Democrats.

The death which struck him so suddenly will have the immediate effect of breaking the proposed campaign for uniting the west and southern groups. Bryan had announced his intention of working for the next few years with his brother, Charles—the last Democratic vice-presidential candidate—for a collection of these sectional groups. He believed that their hopes were one and the same and that the east was alien.

Then there may be an important change of influence upon the religious activities within the party. As an ardent fundamentalist Bryan, at the time of his death, was drawing increasing power for his moral viewpoint. He had stepped forward for a new role as champion of the fundamentalist creed. There is no one else at hand who could wish to fill it as he would have filled it.

But whatever upheaval there is within the ranks, whatever blow the McAdoo forces feel, and how the religious issue is affected, no more will the "Bryan influence" function as a power to be considered in the formulation of Democratic policies.

Behind him he leaves no one to champion his name. There is hardly a possibility that his brother will attempt to carry on his role. The active "Bryan influence" is dead.

College Students Miss Lectures— Credits Docked

Retribution was meted out to certain wayward students of the State Teachers College this morning by President Uel W. Lamkin for non-attendance at the lectures of Dr. Edith Hale Swift, prominent lecturer on social hygiene, last Thursday and Friday. Before the lectures were given it had been announced that attendance of all students would be expected. It seems that some did not attend.

The following is the text in full of a letter posted at the College this morning:

To Certain College Students:

Announcement was made that every student was expected to attend the lectures by Dr. Swift last Thursday and Friday. There were three lectures for women and one for men. No attendance slip was turned in for you. It will be necessary, therefore, for us to deduct one and one-fourth hours of credit from the credit you make during this summer term. This will be done when your grades are turned in at the end of the summer term. Credit will be deducted from electives where possible.

In lieu of deduction of credit, you may, if you so desire, read the following assignments and turn in a written report of from 300 to 500 words on the reading. The men will hand their reports to Mr. Phillips and the women will turn in their reports to Dean Barnard. These reports must be in before the close of the present summer quarter.

The following is the reading assignment:

Bigelow: Sex Education, chapters I, II, III and IV., and for men chapter VII in addition, and for women chapter IX in addition.

These references may be found in the library subject to regulations regarding books on reserve.

If you were in attendance, or, if there was a real reason why you could not attend, you may, if you wish, see me some day this week. This ruling, however, will not be modified except in case of urgent necessity.

Very truly yours,

Uel W. Lamkin, President.

A note appended to the notice said that all men who were at military camp were excused from the above penalties.

Various comments, some humorous, some mock tragic, and some meaningless were made by students reading the letter. "Oh, my soul," "My stars alive," "Lordy, kid, look what we have to write on," "Oh, boy, ain't I glad I went," "I'm glad he didn't ask me what Dr. Swift talked about" and "Good bye, hour and a quarter credit" were some of those heard.

Dr. W. B. Owen of Skidmore was in Maryville today making arrangements to open his dental office the first of the week. He recently purchased the office of Dr. J. C. Allender, in the First National Bank building.

Prof. J. A. Whiteford and daughter, Margaret, of Cape Girardeau and the former's sister, Miss Blanche Whiteford of Guilford drove to Maryville yesterday afternoon to visit their cousin, Mrs. Emma DeMoss. Prof. Whiteford is superintendent of the public schools at Cape Girardeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Davis of Kansas City, who motored here yesterday to visit the former's brother, George Fred Davis, and family, returned home this morning.

To St. Joseph Schools

Miss Marie Landfather of Maryville was selected by the school board of St. Joseph as the English instructor at the Benton school in that city.

Wilson Boy Injured.

Adrian Wilson, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertie Wilson of Sheridan, was badly burned about the face, head and right hand yesterday morning while playing with matches. He struck a match near an automobile tank which contained water and gasoline. The boy was doing very well today.

BOOSTERS TO BEDFORD

Delegation To Leave Maryville At 12:30 O'Clock Tomorrow Afternoon —Many Urged To Go.

Dick Strong, who will be in charge of the delegation going to Bedford tomorrow, has secured the co-operation of Mayor W. O. Garrett and Bernard Dougan, chief of police, to have the east side of Main street free from cars, from First to Third streets tomorrow noon to facilitate the lining up of all cars making the trip, as well as the placing of banners and badges.

Everyone going to Bedford is requested to be on hand promptly at noon tomorrow in order that the procession may be ready to start no later than 12:30 o'clock.

Everyone in this vicinity who is going to the fair tomorrow is urged to join with the Maryville boosters. Indications today point to the fact that several hundred people from here will be in Bedford tomorrow afternoon. A feature of the trip will be the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College Band under the direction of Herbert Gray. The band will share the bandstand with the Bedford band.

A committee will be stationed on the highway east of Bedford to line up the cars as they arrive for the procession through Bedford prior to going to the fairgrounds. All who wish to secure banners for their cars and badges, should call at the Chamber of Commerce office before noon tomorrow.

As the races start promptly at 2 p. m., it is absolutely necessary that everyone be on time. Two trouble-cars will make the trip to take care of difficulties of tires and cars. This is a splendid opportunity to win the lasting appreciation of the people of Bedford and Taylor County.

Sure I thought the water wagon had drowned you.

HARMONY

Church Notes

Church services were well attended Sunday morning, the figure for Sunday School attendance showed a slight decrease over the preceding Sunday. The pastor announced that the election of a delegate to represent the local congregation at the county annual conference would be held next Sunday. Christian Endeavor was held in the evening with Kathryn Lewis as leader. Our orchestra made its first public appearance by playing at this meeting. Ross Edwards, Orville Underwood, Ogle McKee and Howard Edwards were the members who made up the quartet of instruments. We hope to make this a regular feature of our meetings in the future.

Junior C. E. will be held next Sunday evening. These services have not been held regularly the last month or so.

A very interesting reunion of the members of the Lanning family will be held at the church on the lawn next Thursday. Eleven members of the family several of them from distant states will be present, and the day will be spent in visiting, in indulging in reminiscences, and the enjoyment of a picnic dinner. A program in which all those present will participate, will be in charge of Mrs. Blanche Lewis of Parnell. Three members of this family living in Nodaway County are Mrs. Alfred Hunt of Harmony, Mrs. Lewis Porter of Parnell, and Thomas Lanning of Maryville.

A merry crowd enjoyed ice cream and the usual accessories at Mark Heflin's Saturday evening in celebration of the completion of haying in the neighborhood. The following with their families attended: Floyd Evans, Harry Martin, George Walker, Shube Coffelt, Perry Onstott, John Edwards and Ova Heflin. Only nine gallons of cream were consumed owing to the depleted condition of the men, worn out by the arduous labors of the haying season.

The orchestra held a well attended practice meeting last Friday evening. Two new students from Parnell took lessons from Mr. Schnabel during the day. The concert as announced before will be given Friday evening, July 31, and this will close the terms work here. We plan to resume the work with the second week of school, with Donald Goforth of Maryville as leader. Mr. Schnabel has been quite successful in creating and sustaining an interest in musical circles here this summer.

Charley Strader and family from Colorado Springs, drove in Wednesday evening to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Willis Wilcox, who was the mother of Mrs. Strader. They drove the seven hundred and fifty miles in two days. They, as well as other members of the Wilcox family were entertained at the home of J. E. Porter Sunday, July 19.

The many friends of John Edwards gave him a surprise on the occasion of his birthday Sunday, July 19. The following with their families were present: Harry Martin, George Walker Floyd Evans, Mark Heflin, Alva Hunt, Alfred Hunt, Perry Onstott, Shube Coffelt, Rev. Underwood, and in addition Roy Jackson, Andy Kimmett, Mrs. Mary Jackson and daughter, Wilma, and Virginia Edwards. Afternoon visitors Dave Heflin and family. John's father, G. W. Edwards, of Jonesville, Va., who has been visiting relatives here for several months was also present. He plans to return to his home in Virginia early in the fall. John was sure surprised but soon rallied and was able to make a full hand when refreshments were served. Many happy returns of the day John.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caudell of Sheridan visited here today.

Brookfield, Mo., July 28—The very rare, but much talked of hoop-snake is being exhibited in Brookfield. The reptile was caught near Carrollton and brought here for display in a show window. The hoop snake is peculiar for its method of killing, supposed to slay by striking its horned tail.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 28.—Wheat and corn futures made good net gains in local trading here today. Oats held firm.

Return of speculative interest to wheat was inspired by bullish comment from the Northwest and a slackening in winter wheat movement. Rapidly diminishing stocks and greatly improved cash business strengthened corn prices.

Oats were steady and after numerous small rallies firmed up.

Provisions were steady.

Washington, July 28.—Commercial aviation in the United States received a big boost today with an announcement from the postoffice department that eight new air mail lines, covering 4,675 miles, would be inaugurated about November 1.

One line will run from Chicago to St. Joseph, Kansas City, Wichita and Dallas, and another will run from Chicago to Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis.

"Evolution Coat" Is Newest Fall Style

Chicago, July 28 (United Press)—The "evolution coat" a smart wrap for boulevard promenades, made of monkey fur, is the newest wrinkle for 1925. This is the edict of the animal fur fashion exhibition here.

The evolution coat is modelled like the other 1925 fall styles—close and form fitting. It extends to the knee just to the roll of the stocking.

"Antelope" is the newest thing in the materials. The fur is cut and applied in squares and makes the cross-word puzzle coat a handsome novelty.

Coats are to take much less material. The "sports half and half" coming half way between the hips and the knees will be a favorite model.

Elevator Man Asked Foolish Questions

Marion, Ill., July 28(United Press)—"Have you taken my wife's mother up in the elevator this morning?"

This, coming from a man he had never seen before, is the most absurd question ever put to Herbert Mozley, elevator man in the Marion State Savings Bank.

Mozley claims he answers more foolish questions than any other Marion man, and likewise claims the one mentioned above is the capital one asked.

Glad He Picked This Good Stomach Remedy

Injudicious eating causes acute indigestion, gas, heartburn, heaviness and sour stomach—sometimes the distended stomach causes that dreadful feeling of near suffocation.

Isn't it worth something to know of a remedy that will stop this distress in a few minutes—quicker than anything else you can think of.

This is no common stomach remedy for it took years of time to combine Pepsin with the other effective agents that make Dare's Mentha-Pepsin so good that the worst cases of indigestion and gastritis and other chronic stomach ailments are speedily overcome and the most deranged stomachs are made clean, strong and healthy.

Mr. Calvin Dilks of Alloway, N. J., a man of few words, knows this for he writes: "I entirely rid myself of an old catarrhal condition of the stomach with Dare's Mentha-Pepsin."

No matter what your stomach trouble is get a bottle today at Koch Pharmacy or any druggist anywhere with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't do you the world of good your money will be returned.

SAVED FRIEND FROM HOSPITAL

So Mrs. Heckman Decided To Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — Note Results —

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—"I had pains in my back and sides and headaches, so that I could not do my work. Once in a while I would be sick a week. A friend told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had kept her out of the hospital, so I thought I would try it, as I had tried a number of other medicines. Now I feel like a different person and am telling my friends about the Vegetable Compound helping me, hoping they will let it help them, too."—Mrs. ETHEL HECKMAN, Box 21, R.F.D. I saw your advertisement and have taken the Vegetable Compound with splendid results. I recommend it freely and will answer any letters from women asking about my case."—Mrs. J. Cancer Sanitarium Is Sued for $100,000

Woman Patient's Nose and Face Disfigured by Drugs Used in Treatment, Claim

St. Joseph, Mo., July 28—A recital of a doctor's alleged mistreatment of a woman patinet is contained in allegations of a damage suit for $100,000 filed in the United States district court here Monday afternon against the Nichols Sanitarium corporation and Dr. Perry Nichols of Savannah, Mo.

Mrs. Rosie Blaskovec, South Omaha, hurls charge after charge in her petition claiming that she was treated for cancer when she had only an ulcerated nose and that drugs were spread on her face to give the wound a cancerous appearance, eating half her face away.

Meanwhile one of the defendants in the case, Doctor Nichols himself, said to be dangerously ill and lying in a bed at the St. Joseph's hospital, was served with a court summons Monday at the same time that the officers of the Savannah corporation were served.

With case docketed for the September term of the district court, Joseph Goldman, St. Joseph attorney, who with W. B. Norris, filed the damage suit, declared Monday night that leading specialists from several cities would be brought in to testify that Mrs. Blaskovec never suffered from cancer.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller of Graham were in Maryville yesterday.

AT LAST—SOMETHING EFFECTIVE FOR WRINKLES!

It has been conclusively demonstrated that a simple home-made tarkroot paste, applied to the face, will very quickly eliminate wrinkles, worry, care and age marks. You need only mix a spoonful each of powdered tarkroot and lemon juice, spread this over your face, then sit down before your mirror and watch the unwelcome lines disappear. In less than fifteen minutes your face will be as smooth and firm as a young girl's! Bagginess will also melt away—youthful contour will be restored. It's simply wonderful how this harmful mixture works.

The result, after the mixture is washed off the face, is infinitely better than from the most skillful face massage. And the cost is trifling—less than three cents per treatment. Any druggist can supply powdered tarkroot in original package. So there's no excuse now for any woman looking so old, haggard or careworn.

Miss Manley Talks to Y. W. C. A. Members—Lincoln Stories at Session of Y. M. C. A.

Miss Helen Manley, who spoke to the Y. W. C. A. of the State Teachers College this morning, told her audience that "If we develop many sides we have more approaches to people." She began her talk by taking the circle as the ideal life and the imperfect life as the polygon.

In the development of her topic she said that the more sides or tastes a person develops the better he becomes and that as the polygon acquires more sides it approaches the circle in appearance. She concluded her speech by telling the Y. W. members that "not being with people is selfish" and "that there is no satisfaction like that of giving."

The College Y. M. C. A. opened its meeting this morning with the singing of "America the Beautiful" and "Lead Kindly Light." C. A. Cauffield read a part of the 14th chapter of Paul. Robert Birbeck sang "Higher Ground" as a vocal number.

The feature of the program was a reading by Al Blagg of Barnard who read "Benefits Forgot," an "Abe" Lincoln story. The reading portrayed the efforts which a minister's widow made in order to send her boy to medical college and the boy's inappreciation of her help and his neglect to write when he was in the army. As the boy leaves the White House after an interview by Abe Lincoln, he sees the old family horse which was sacrificed for his education. With contrition, he buys it and takes it back to his mother.

Paul Stone, the president of the organization, announced that examinations would not interfere with next Tuesday's program and urged that all attend as Sam Evans, president of the Y. M. organization the past year and a graduate of State Teachers College who is leaving to enter the University of Missouri, will speak next Tuesday.

The Newman Club was entertained by Harry A. Miller, instructor of public speaking, who read "The End of the Path," "Tradin' Joe," "The Leper," and "Ain't it Fine Today," Before the entertainment a business meeting was held and a few songs were sung.

The Country Life Club, which was formerly the Rural Club of the State Teachers College, will have the following program Thursday:

Musical number—Christine Goff.

Reading—Maybelle Knight.

"Music in the Schools"—Arthur Elmore.

Discussion—"Needed Readjustments in Rural Life Today."

As this topic of discussion is the same as that of the American Collegiate Country Life Association convention which will be held in Philadelphia the club is looking forward to the presentation of a number of ideas which will make good suggestions to present at the national conference.

be held here at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the New York avenue Presbyterian Church, it was announced today. Burial will follow immediately on Dewey Knoll in Arlington national cemetery.

The funeral arrangements were approved by Mrs. Bryan in a telegram from Dayton to Ben Davis, Bryan's former secretary.

In a plot of ground near the noble monument, which commemorates the immortal Lincoln, the body will be laid to rest. In the same great cemetery with forty thousand stanch, true and loyal Americans, the Commoner will be laid in impressive ceremonies Friday at the national cemetery in Arlington, Va. On the slopes of the hill in the white city of the departed, near the old Lee mansion, and also near the spot where Bryan will be buried, are the graves of Generals Phil Sheridan and Joseph Wheeler; Admirals Porter and Farragut; General Crook, the famous Indian fighter; Major L'Enfant, the French designer of the city of Washington, and the unkown American soldier of the World War. The cemetery has been set aside by the government as a resting place for every true patriot of this nation who has served in any military unit of the country's forces, whether he be a leader and of renowned fame, or a simple soldier or sailor who fought and died for the glory of the Stars and Stripes. May 13, 1864, the first burial was made in the soil that is now Arlington when the body of a Confederate soldier was laid there at the personal order of President Abraham Lincoln. The ground was first granted to one Robert Howsen by Sir William Berkeley, governor of Virginia in 1869, who in turn sold a part of it to John Alexander. The Alexander family kept the property for more than a century, then sold it to John Parke Curtis. It remained in the Curtis house until the government confiscated it January 6, 1864. It is in this historic place, which he himself had often termed "the most beautiful spot I have ever seen," that Bryan, the famed champion of the people, his last fight done, will rest.

New York, July 28.—William Jennings Bryan's last written appeal, contained in his Sunday school lesson which will not be released until August 15, declared a lasting belief that a supernatural power governs the world—"a power that can communicate instructions to man."

Through the courtesy of the Republic Syndicate, which distributed Bryan's Sunday school lessons to a large number of newspapers, the United Press is enabled to announce exclusively the topic of Bryan's last article. It is a stirring appeal for the old faith, entitled "A Macedonian Call."

Bryan harks back to the vision of Paul at Troas (site of ancient Troy) when, in company with Silas and Timothy, he received a Divine Summons to go to Macedonia and preach.

Bryan saw three lessons in that call:

1—That there was a supernatural power that governed the world and which could transmit messages to mortals.

2—That there always were fields in which the gospel could be preached.

3—That God works through men to serve the world.

Average Cost of Educating High School Students Is About $79 Per School Year

Three surveys in educational fields that are of interest in local educational circles have just been completed by three members of the class in Consolidated and Small High Schools of the State Teachers College.

Marvin Pigg, superintendent of the New Point, Mo., schools, W. T. Williams, superintendent of the Glasgow, Mo., schools, and Duane Whitford, a member of the graduating class of this spring and instructor in the high school at Kiowa, Kan., next year made the surveys.

The work on display at the College is the result of two months' work by each of the three men. The other members of the class are also working on projects of a similar nature but have not yet reported the results of their studies.

The data collected by Mr. Pigg covers almost fifty consolidated schools in northwest Missouri. It shows that the average valuation of consolidated districts is $1,659,161; that the average enrollment is 208; that the average levy is 79 cents; that the average value of the school building is $25,000; that the average expenditure is $16,031; that the average cost per pupil is $79; and that the valuation per child is $7,555.

The statistics gathered by Mr. Williams is concerned with the schools in small towns of about 500 population and is gathered from various places throughout the state. His results show a median cost per pupil of $57 in comparison with the average cost per pupil of $79 in the consolidated school survey by Mr. Pigg. He shows also a valuation of $3,858 per child as against a per child valuation of $7,555 in Mr. Pigg's report.

The display on school architecture by Mr. Whitford is gathered from architects, mostly in the Middle West, and shows views and architectural drawings of buildings ranging in cost from $20,000 upward. In the collection are pictures and plans of the best features of some of the most up-to-date school buildings in the United States. Most of the plans reveal an effort on the part of the architects to combine practical utility with artistic appearance in the building of schools.
